Maggie has been with us the longest – since October of 2003! She's been sewing since middle school but has always been into crafts. Maggie always has a smile on her face and loves to help and be with people. When you see all the goodies at events, thank Maggie she is our food specialist. In addition to food, she is always ready to tackle any task given to her to the best of her ability. From making samples to reorganizing areas in the shop, she's just great. I learned something special just last week, she is going to be a grandma for the first time sometime this year.

And in conclusion:

I was out walking with my 4-year-old daughter.
She picked up something off the ground and started to put it in her mouth.

I took the item away from her and I asked her not to do that.

"Why?" my daughter asked

"Because it's been on the ground, and you don't know where it's been. It's dirty and probably has germs," I replied.

At this point, my daughter looked at me with total admiration and asked,

"Mama, how do you know all this stuff? You are so smart."

I was thinking quickly, "All moms know this stuff. It's on the Mama Test. You have to know it, or they don't let you be a mama."

We walked along in silence for 2 or 3 minutes, but she was evidently pondering this new information.

"Oh.....I get it!" she beamed. "So if you don't pass the test, you have to be the dad."

"Exactly, " I replied with a big smile on my face.

No offence to all the wonderful Dads out there.
